Description:

The DB11 is a sports car produced by Aston Martin. It replaced the DB9 built from 2004 to 2016 and continues the type designation DB (David Brown). In 2017, the DB11 won the Golden Steering Wheel Award in the "Most Beautiful Car" category.

In May 2018, Aston Martin presented the model DB11 AMR during the 24-hour race at the Nürburgring. It was built in collaboration with Aston Martin Racing and now produces 639 hp.

The Aston Martin DB11 AMR offered here was completed in 2019 and used as a Works Demonstrator in Formula 1 until its first registration in 2021. It convinces with its condition „as new“ and its appealing color scheme. As an individual request of the owner, a matching four-piece suitcase set was made.
