About the car:

In the autumn of 1994 the F512 M, the new version of the 512, was presented (M for “modificata”). Radical improvements were made to the whole car: the power/weight ratio was improved as was the styling, while still keeping the original Pininfarina basic design. It is the last unlimited mid-engined twelve-cylinder. The F512 M, of which only 501 examples were produced, was replaced in 1996 by the front-engined 550 Maranello.

According to available documents, the Ferrari 512 M presented here was originally delivered in Berlin in 1996 before it was sold to its current owner shortly afterwards. The car has been regularly serviced by brand specialists and recently underwent a major service including the replacement of the timing belt. Particularly noteworthy are the carbon fibre racing seats, which offer sufficient space even for taller drivers.

A good opportunity to acquire one of the few F512 Ms built in excellent condition and with a traceable history.

Engine:

12-cylinder Boxer engine, 4943 cm<sup>3</sup>, 440 hp
