Description:

With the Porsche 964, the Zuffenhausen-based company transported the 911 design into the 90s. The third generation of the Porsche 911 still relied on the proven concept of an air-cooled six-cylinder boxer engine in the rear, but offered plenty of technical innovations. The 2+2-seater sports car was launched in 1989 and built until 1993. With a total of 63.762 units, the third generation (964) is the rarest of the 911s.

The Porsche 964 Carrera 4 Cabriolet offered here was delivered via the Porsche Center Wuppertal in Germany. With its low mileage of just 78,600 km the almost untouched original vehicle is in a very good condition. A traceable maintenance history, as well as the original board folder is available. This is a good opportunity to purchase a well-kept original vehicle in a special and rare colour scheme of the extremely popular 964 series.
