Description:

The Aston Martin DB 4 was presented at the London Motor Show in October 1958. It marked the beginning of the legendary era of the classic David Brown Aston Martins with Italian Touring design, which was further developed towards the DB 6. From 1958 to 1963, 1,185 DB 4 were manufactured, the last series V from October 1962. This car is one of only 136 DB 4 Vantage built.

This vehicle was delivered in March 1963 by Brooklands Motors in England. In 1972 the DB 4 was sold to the USA and in 1990 it reached Japan via Australia. The car was extensively restored by an Aston Martin specialist. Later it became part of an important Aston Martin collection.

This DB 4 features its original engine ("matching numbers") and impresses with its beautiful part-restored condition. The Aston Martin DB 4 combines all the attributes that make a legendary sports car: beauty, speed, perfect craftsmanship and rarity. A car for the demanding collector!
