Description:

In the production year 1994 the Porsche 964 series was replaced by the 993 series. This was a significant step forward, not only technically but also visually. For many enthusiasts, the Porsche 993 is one of the most beautiful Porsche 911s ever built. The front wings of the Porsche 993 Carrera became wider and flatter. Because of the shorter boot lid, the black rubber lip that forms the seam between the body and the front bumper of the G model and the 964 was omitted. The rear wings were also wider and ran in a straight line to the rear with the higher positioned tail lights. The Porsche 993 was the fourth generation of the 911 overall. As the last air-cooled 911, the 993 has since become a sought-after classic. Through careful evolution over more than 30 years, it is considered to be technically absolutely mature and durable. Among connoisseurs, the 993 is considered the pinnacle of the air-cooled era and the last of its kind. The 993 Cabriolet described here was delivered in Germany where it still resides today. This almost untouched original vehicle is in very well maintained condition, has a traceable maintenance history and is also well documented overall. A rare opportunity to acquire a vehicle still in first-class original condition in a special colour scheme.
